

Your gift is a long term investment in our cultural community.

Dear Members, Patrons and Friends,

The Board of Trustees and Staff hope that you have enjoyed yourselves this past busy event-filled season! We worked together to bring imaginative programming to the art community. Our small staff has been reliable, welcoming, inventive, and their teamwork is to be commended!

The Board of Trustees has reworked the expenditures of the Association to reduce costs to operate as economically and efficiently as is possible. Our exhibition receptions have been delightful gatherings of fellowship, with most of this season's refreshments provided by our members. We thank you!

Looking ahead, next year's schedule will combine the arts and sciences. We will bring together three non-profit communities to educate, to create, and to raise the value of the potential of our mutual advocacy. In a joint effort, North Shore Arts Association will work with Ocean Alliance (whale.org) and Rocky Neck Art Colony (rockyneckartcolony.org), bringing to the public an exhibition focusing on the Art of the Sea and Science. In addition, we will engage speakers from the three organizations to further share and educate.

A top priority is the restoration of our building. We already have received multiple quotes to restore the deteriorated waterside wall. The goal is to begin work in the spring of 2016. Practically all of our fundraising efforts are devoted toward this project, but we have far to go.

To make all of our plans possible, we ask you to be generous in your giving. The 2015 Annual Appeal Funds will be used for general seasonal expenditures, programming and building restoration. The Board of Trustees hopes that this generation of Artists, Patrons and Friends can maintain and restore our beloved building for the next generation.

You are our NSAA heroes, please give!

I look forward to seeing you in 2016 in our home on the harbor!

Best wishes,
Anne Demeter
NSAA President
